

A concentration of media ownership in the hands of a few corporations is not in the public interest. We are already seeing the effects of that concentration in the lack of diversity across the media spectrum.